Chapter 4

Renanubandhan

An excellent and simple explanation of karma theory and renanubandhan written by Sri Sri Ravishankar Ji is reproduced here.

As I grew up I started wondering about the purpose of life. Life brought with its myriad experiences, the inevitable experience of suffering too. Why do we suffer? Why are we born? Such questions plagued my mind for a long time. The sacred books and the wise men gave me a glimpse of the theory of karma and transmigration of the soul. It seemed very logical, yet I could not accept it fully till I started studying Jyotish or Hindu Astrology. It took me years of hard work, some experience and sincere thinking to appreciate the subtleties. When I started seeing the patterns in the horoscope manifesting in actual life, I had to accept the theory of Karma. Slowly it was no more a belief, but a truth. Karma means not only action, but also the result of an action. Whatever we are going through at the moment is the result of previous actions, not just of this life, but many lives. In short Karma is the sum total of our actions both in this life and in the preceding ones. Nothing happens by accident or chance actions. Everything happens in regular order, the past, present and the future being interconnected and interdependent. Cause is Effect concealed, and Effect is Cause revealed!

Now that brings us to the question of rebirth. Books written by Ian Stevenson, Hiroshi Motoyama, Raymond Moody and many other interesting cases suggest that there is compelling evidence for rebirth. Every good astrologer himself is proof of Karma and rebirth!

Let us examine the theory of Karma and rebirth according to Santana Dharma. You will not cease to exist after death. It is the physical body that dies. The astral body (sukshma or linga sarira) and causal body (Karana sarira) continue forth. The causal body has all your Karmas stored in it as seeds, seeds that result in rebirth. As long as man has not exhausted all his Karmas, he has to be born again. All our actions and thoughts become the seeds for our future lives. Karma is at the root of this cycle of births and deaths. Again and again Karma makes us take birth. Countless times have we been born and countless times have we died. Very many wombs have we passed through. This is the Hindu view. The Buddhist view is different in its approach to reincarnation and the self though it shares a lot with the Hindu view as far as Karma is concerned.

Renanubandhan

In each life, we have mother, father, brothers, sisters, spouse, children and so on. We are born in a family as a result of un discharged debts of past lives. Constantly we are creating accounts, debiting and crediting. We are creating Karmic debts with all those with whom we interact. The Karmic debts (rna) lead to bondage or attachment (bandhan). These Karmic attachments pull us into the wheel of existence again and again. Renanubandhan (the bond that results from Karmic debts) is at the root of repeated lives.

Karma leads to rna and rna leads to Karma. It works both ways. If you have given something to somebody in some life, the memory is stored in your causal body. That person will be your debtor in this birth. If you have taken in the past, it will be taken from you in some birth. If you have given in the past it will come back to you later. The causal body stores the memory of all of one's renanubandhan of countless births. Till all the karma stored in the causal body is burnt away or exhausted, there is no liberation from rebirth. Human life is nothing but a memory of renanubandhan, the story of the countless karma that we make, and live through. Every relationship reflects some renanubandhan. The people with whom we have very strong renanubandhan become our parents, spouse, children and co-born in this life. In most relationships it is our rna that ensures a complementary fit, just like a lock and key.

The citta (unconscious mind) holds these emotional memories or subliminal impressions that drive one to act or seek. They are more like vague impressions rather than clear memories. The memory of Karmic debts may be sweet or bitter. Sweet memories of karmic debts lead to a 'happy' relationship and bitter memories to an 'unhappy' relationship. In reality most of the karmic debts are mixed, a mixture of sweet and bitter memories. That is why most relationships are of a mixed nature. I will try to explain briefly two kinds of relationships that are most significant: parent/child and love/marriage relationships.

Parent /Child Relationship

This relationship is the most important. This is the easiest way to discharge our karmic debts toward one another. Some possible ways in which it works:

- A person whom you have helped in some life is born as a child, takes good care of you in the present life and discharges his/her debt.
- A person to whom you owe a lot in some life may be born as your son or daughter and take back what you owe. Such a child makes you spend heavily on her/him.

- A person whom you cheated ruthlessly in a previous life is born as your child and gives you a lot of suffering, takes your money and goes away.
- An enemy of some life is born as a son/daughter in this life, in which case, he/she behaves like an enemy, hates you and causes a lot of suffering to you. The spouse, the parents, siblings, friends, servants, all are born in a particular place-time together as a result of renanubandhan.

Astrological combinations

Astrology is a language which can be read after learning it. It indicates the writing of karma written in your book. The birth horoscope is the basic book and saptamsha is the chapter dealing with your karma regarding children. Some combinations from classics are given which deals with inimical relations between parent and child.

BPHS

1. Relation of lagan lord and sixth lord with ninth cause enmity between father and son.

JATAKA TATVA

1. When fifth lord is in twelfth or sixth house child behaves like enemy.
2. If lagan lord and Jupiter are enemy or bitter enemy according to Panchdha Maitri and such Jupiter is placed in sixth house from lagan and is aspected by lagan lord the child and father behave as enemy.

3. When there is a malefic in fifth house from Jupiter the happiness from son is not there. This can be denial of a son.

PHALDIPIKA
